

Angela Hattery

Professor, Women and Gender Studies; Co-Director, Center for Study & Prevention of GBV at University of Delaware

Newark, DE, US

Prof. Hattery teaches courses on race and gender inequality, families, and methods.

Biography

Angela Hattery, is Professor of the Women & Gender Studies and co-Director of the Center for the Study and Prevention of Gender Based Violence at the University of Delaware. She received her BA in sociology and anthropology from Carleton College and her masters and Ph.D. in sociology from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She is the author of 12 books. Her most recent, Way Down in the Hole: Race, Intimacy and the Reproduction of Racial Ideologies in Solitary Confinement explores the ways in which racial antagonisms are exacerbated by the particular structures of solitary confinement. She is also the author of Policing Black Bodies: How Black Lives are Surveilled and How to Work for Change (2022) and Gender, Power and Violence: Responding to Sexual and Intimate Partner Violence in Society Today. Prior to coming to UD she held positions at Ball State University, Wake Forest University, Colgate University, and most recently at George Mason University.

Industry Expertise

Corrections, Health and Wellness, Women

Areas of Expertise

Mass Incarceration, Solitary Confinement, Gender Inequalities, Racial Inequality, Domestic Violence, Sexual Violence, Intimate Partner Violence

Affiliations

Sociologist for Women in Society (SWS) : Member, The Scholars Strategy Network (SSN) : Member

Education

University of Wisconsin-Madison
PhD Sociology

University of Wisconsin-Madison
MS Sociology

Carleton College
BA Sociology and Anthropology

Accomplishments

Excellence in Teaching Award
2024 University of Delaware

Feminist Lecturer Award
2019 Sociologists for Women in Society (SWS)

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.