Sex, Lies and Mission Statements: Making Mission Matter

In Sex, Lies and Mission Statements, Dr. Bart focuses on how vitally important the mission statement is to every organization. Based on over 20 years of research, he shows how to implement your organization's mission statement so that it will deliver outstanding results IMMEDIATELY!! In so doing, he stimulates his audiences to transform their organization's mission statement from murk into a masterpiece that inspires action, employee engagement and performance excellence.

Execution is Everything!

Fortune magazine reports that 90% of organizational failures are due to bad execution of their otherwise good strategies. In contrast, only 10% of firms fail because they started off with a bad strategy in the first place. In this presentation, Dr. Bart describes what excellence in strategy execution looks like. He pin points the common sources of execution gaps that hold organizations back from achieving superior organizational performance and shows how to close them.

Back to the Future: Timeless Lessons for Organizational Success

In Back to the Future, Dr. Bart focuses on six critical leadership basics that have endured the test of time. Interestingly, the failure to learn - and to adhere to them - represents some of the most common mistakes managers make which lead to organizational failure. Fortunately, these six concepts are simple and incredibly easy to remember. And the best part is that you can use what you learn the minute you go back to your office. Guaranteed!

Employee Engagement: Business Buzz or Serious Business?

Employee Engagement is the key ingredient for the masterful execution of an organization's strategy and critical to attracting and retaining key talent. Yet there are a lot of traps that make employee engagement difficult to achieve. In this presentation, Dr. Bart will show you how to take action to create an environment in which people willingly give the essential and discretionary "extra effort" that signifies high levels of Employee Engagement and ultimately impacts an organization's success.

Competing in the "Experience Economy"

In the Experience Economy, businesses must devise and stage 'positive event encounters' for their customers. They must turn their customers' "moments" with them into lasting "memories". Why? Because it is those memories which become the real product purchased. In this presentation, Dr. Bart will show you how you can transform your organization to orchestrate engaging experiences for all of your customers and have your employees give outstanding "performances" on the new business stage.

Honorable John Manley

“Chris Bart is easily one of the finest speakers I have encountered in my long career. Focused, clear, enthusiastic and probing. Chris makes learning as enjoyable as it should be.”

Ellen K. Silverglen

“Wow! I just had to share the fabulous feedback I've been getting about Dr. Bart's presentation yesterday. Absolutely everyone has been raving about it – they liked his personable, relaxed and humorous style and admired his energy and knowledge – they were captivated! I just want to say once again – thank you Dr. Bart so much for your generosity in sharing your time and knowledge with us – you made the day!”

Michael MacBean

“Chris captivates his audience.”

Thomas Zaugg

Chris Bart has become somewhat of legend at Diebold Canada! He is awesome. He provided more information in a half day than most speakers give in two days - and he keeps you spellbound the entire time. More importantly, his talk formed the genesis for some major corporate reform initiatives...His concepts have now become an integral part of our corporate culture...We reaped immediate benefits through more focussed organizational effort and better strategy implementation. I would not hesitate to recommend him and his teachings to other organizations. Bart is one 'guru' who has really made a difference. Thank you Chris!

Gerlinde Herrmann

“Our belief in the need for good governance and our dedication to ensuring the ongoing trust of our constituents, lead us to seek out the assistance of an expert in governance. After substantial research, we chose to work with Dr. Bart, not only because of his outstanding credentials, but also for his clear passion for his work. He transformed our organization. I have never seen one sole presenter be so effective!”
