

Cliff Missen, M.A.

Clinical Associate Professor and Director of WiderNet@UNC at UNC-Chapel Hill

Chapel Hill, NC, US

Missen is the Director of the WiderNet Project

Missen is a clinical associate professor in the School of Information and Library Science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He directs the WiderNet@UNC research lab and the non-profit WiderNet Project, where he oversees efforts to improve digital communication in developing countries through hands-on training and research into low-cost applications of information technology. Missen leads development of the eGranary Digital Library, an information store that aims to deliver the world's knowledge to people and institutions lacking Internet access. He was also a TED fellow in 2007 and a Senior Fulbright Scholar in Nigeria in 1999.

Education/Learning, Public Policy, Philanthropy, Information Technology and Services, International Affairs, Computer Software, Training and Development, Research, Non-Profit/Charitable

Digital Libraries, Off-line information access, Information technologies for underserved populations, Libraries in the developing world, Information services for incarcerated populations, Economic Empowerment, Human Rights Education, Poverty Alleviation, International Development, ICT for Education, sub-Saharan Africa, Rural Water Development, World Percussion

University of Iowa

M.A. Development Communications / Journalism

The Evergreen State College

B.A. International Studies

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.