I help women live the centered, balanced, and sexy lives they deserve.

Biography

I'm that kick in the ass you need to start leading the life you were meant to live. I help fabulous professional women lead centered, balanced lives through personalized mind and body exercises - making them feel happy, hot, and (back) in control by shifting the way they think about themselves. As a wellness coach and personal trainer, I show you how exercise and nutrition can be seamlessly integrated into your life - changing what you "should do" into "what you do." With an MA in Organizational Management, I help you define your balance and find your center to incorporate what's really important and limit the anxiety and stress that comes with working so much. My mission is to make you feel like the sexy, fabulous woman that you are and help you get back in control of your life.
