Biography

EERIC WEAVER is a digital marketing veteran who has spent 28 years creating market impact for household brands. As VP and Practice Lead for the Xerox Customer Experience Practice, Weaver oversees the company's US marketing services consultancy, providing Fortune 500 clients with customer experience design, transformation advisory, content marketing, marketing automation, and personalization council. He is also a key contributor to the company's efforts around distributed ledger technology. Before to his role at Xerox, Weaver counseled both large corporate clients and governmental agencies in the areas of business strategy, competitive advantage, customer experience, and digital transformation.

ROX: Creating a Return on Experience

SYNOPSIS: Companies are under constant, often painful pressure to increase sales and reduce costs. Often that pressure leads executive teams to look inward, pushing overworked sales teams even harder or making painful cuts to delivery capability. Yet there's a big opportunity to achieve executive KPIs without the pain, by looking outward to the customer experience.

In this talk, veteran digital marketer Eric Weaver will discuss the growing practice of Customer Experience (CX) Management – quantifying the opportunity, providing tactical tips on improving customer touchpoints, particularly at retail, and sharing examples of top-line and bottom-line improvements that create significant Return on Experience. Cases will cover how to spike revenue through innovative customer engagement campaigns (to the tune of $1B in a record 30 days), and how to reduce costs by 25% through supply chain improvements, automation and efficiencies. Attendees will leave with a management case to shift from traditional approaches toward more impactful investments in CX improvements.

Testimonials

Angela Scardillo

"Eric is among the rare few thought-leaders truly immersed in social media. He definitely "gets it". Our organization reached out to Eric in an effort to better understand and integrate social media into our communications and customer experience strategy, and he left our team engaged and inspired."

Andrea Shuff

"As a client who worked closely with Eric for more than a year, I would entrust him with any large Marketing project – not just Social. Eric is one of the smartest people I've ever worked with – an absolute leader in the digital space, a true expert in Social and an all-around great guy. From the beginning of our engagement, he was a partner in the truest sense – engrossing himself in our business and ultimately becoming more knowledgeable about the inner workings of our organization than many of us were. He is more than capable of developing complex strategies but doesn't shy away from then determining the necessary tactical pieces to execute it."

Maria Emmer-Aanes

"When I met Eric Weaver in 2008 during a website redesign project, I knew NOTHING about social media. Day in and day out, Eric encouraged me to jump into this new media world with both feet. Over a six month period, Eric built our confidence and convinced Nature's Path Organic Foods that we could no longer leave untapped, awareness building and shopper engagement opportunity on the table. He helped us set strategic goals, provided our team with new resources, collaborative partnerships, and effective tools that allowed us to soar. In fact, during that time we set communication handrails that have made us the number one organic brand throughout social media today. Eric can see the future. He has a clear picture of what matters in building relationships and he is remarkable at pulling people together to get things done. He is a phenomenal listener who is generous with praise, open to tough assignments and strategically breaks through constraining paradigms by taking smart, calculated risks. He is a man who leads with honor, integrity and heart. Simply put, you cannot and will not find better than Eric Weaver."

Shane Gibson

"Eric Weaver and I first connected on Twitter several years ago. The thing that struck me immediately was his willingness to genuinely help and share his vast experience in marketing, business and of course social media and social communications. As an author of two books on social media I have traveled to four continents interacting with all sorts of social media "leaders" and thought leaders. I've seen it all - and Eric is the real deal. We had him speak at Social Media Week Vancouver in 2011 and he was so well received that we asked him to return and speak a second year in-a-row at Social Media Week Vancouver 2012. I would highly recommend Eric as a marketing and social media thought leader. He is the real deal."

Gary Goldhammer

"Eric Weaver is a profound thinker, astute strategist and an inspirational speaker, manager and practitioner in all things digital. He can do 'what's now' while always pushing his clients and colleagues toward 'what's next,' and his dedication to his work is admirable to say the least. There are a very few people in this industry with Eric's abilities or passion."

Jon Winberg

"I've have had the opportunity of working with Eric Weaver on two occasions, this year. Eric's presentations are very well researched and organized, he is a true professional and a pleasure to work with. The delegates were very impressed with Eric's presentation style and incredible knowledge on the subject matter. We would highly recommend Eric and I personally look forward to the opportunity of working together in the future."

George Riddell

"Eric Weaver has delivered several outstanding presentations to the members and constituents of Ad Club Seattle over the past few years. Each time, he has delivered an insightful, forward-thinking analysis of the current and future state of online social networks—with specific attention to the ways marketers and advertising professionals can and should be using new media. Based on our experiences with Eric, I strongly endorse him as a presenter and expert on the subject of digital media and social networking."

Mike Whitmore

"Per my recommendation, Fresh brought Eric to be our Keynote Speaker at Social Media 201 in Seattle on April 15th. He was the PERFECT choice for the event which was held at Microsoft's Conference Center. Eric provided the perfect blend of fantastic delivery, comedic timing, supportive data and relevance to the attendees and made his Keynote one of the highlights of the event. I would highly recommend Eric as a Keynote and want to publicly recognize his contributions to the success of our event."
