Technology of business reporter at BBC News

Description

BBC News reporter. Head honcho; edits, commissions, writes and reports for the popular Technology of business special report and BBC World TV strand focusing on how technology can help business innovate.

As job would hopefully suggest, fascinated by technology of all kinds and insatiably curious about the world.

Spare time spent worrying about the inevitable robot uprising, sitting by the river in Greenwich, searching for Red Kola south of the border, travelling as far from London as my income will take me, reading and riding my sit up and beg.
