Biography

I love software, people and showing software to people so it was only natural that one day I would be involved in IT Training. While my background was originally in Commerce (Euromed Marseille and UCD in the 90's), as I typed essays in Word and tabulated data in Excel my interest for computers, and software in general, grew. Today my software skills, project management experience and interest in making a difference and sharing with people all converge in my role as an IT Training Consultant. How lucky am I? So please get in touch if you find any of the above of interest to you or if you just need me to come by and show you how to create outstanding PowerPoint slides or jaw-dropping Excel PivotTables.

Excel for Sales: Using Excel to Manage Your Pipeline and Assess a Deal's Probability

In this session Francois will show how easily you can use a simple spreadsheet to track and report on a sales pipeline for a salesperson or a team. He'll also show the SalesScoringGrid spreadsheet that predicts the likelihood of a structured sell, based on simple-to-enter criteria. For salespeople who do a monthly slide packs for a particular customer, Francois will demonstrate how to automate this tedious task.
