Productivity and Workplace Performance Expert

Biography

Hi, my name is Jason. I earned my Masters Degree in Education to learn how to teach. I went back to school to earn a Master's Degree in Psychology to learn how people learn. I apply these experiences in corporate learning environments to solve the challenges of work/life balance in an era of increased personal accountability.

I share methods to maximize tools, systems and processes to achieve a higher quality of work/life balance. I have worked with leaders and executives for over 15 years.

I am also very active in the health and wellness areas of my life. While traveling worldwide, I train and compete regularly as an age-group triathlete. Since 2000, I have completed three 1/2 Ironman distance races, and several half-marathons around the United States. I consistently place in the top 10% of my age group in both 5K and 10K races. In July, 2010 I earned first place in my age group at the Carpinteria Triathlon. My 2009 PR for the 1/2 marathon distance race is 1:30:37.

Testimonials

Mike Vardy

“Jason is a great communicator, bar none. He is able to break down the practices of getting the important stuff done into manageable and achievable blocks, and keeps it light in the process. His last book, "The Promise Doctrine", further illustrates the accessibility of his work...and he loves to teach others how to excel at what they REALLY want to do. He was a great interview and I thoroughly enjoyed his book; plus he has kept in constant contact with me since our discussion months ago. If you're looking for someone to help you achieve without feeling like you've got the weight of the world on your shoulders in doing so, Jason is your man.”

Christopher Scott

“Jason is an incredible presenter. He knows how to present his content in a purposeful and creative way.

He connects very well with his audiences and participants have always been appreciative of his content.”
