

Kelly Grindrod

Assistant Professor, School of Pharmacy at University of Waterloo

Waterloo, ON, CA

Kelly Grindrod's areas of expertise include medication use, digital health technology and pharmacy education

Description

Kelly is an assistant professor at the University of Waterloo's School of Pharmacy. She is also a licensed and practicing pharmacist in primary care. Her research includes novel ways to bring research findings to today's busy medical clinics and pharmacy counters, namely through innovations in mobile technologies such as mobile apps, wearables and electronic health records. After completing her pharmacy degree at the University of Alberta and a hospital residency at the London Health Sciences Centre, she moved to the University of British Columbia to do a PharmD, Master of Science degree and a post-doctoral fellowship. Her areas of expertise include medication use, digital health technology and pharmacy education.
