

Lindsay Tedds

Associate Professor at University of Victoria

Victoria, BC, CA

Associate Professor of economics with expertise in the design and implementation of tax policy.

Description

Lindsay holds a BA in Political Science from Carleton University, a BA and MA in Economics from the University of Victoria, and a PhD in Economics from McMaster University. Lindsay has previously held a faculty appointment at the University of Manitoba and was more recently a Visiting Professor at the School of Public Policy at the University of Calgary.

Lindsay is a specialist in applied economic research and policy analysis, with a particular focus on the design and implementation of tax policy. Her work spans a number of topics including the underground economy, income underreporting, the tax treatments of stock options, the second-hand economy, user fees, insider disclosure, and birth seasonality. She is the co-author of two books and has published a number of book chapters, technical reports, interactive guides, and papers in peer reviewed journals.

Lindsay is a regular non-partisan public commentator, writing for print media, appearing on a variety of T.V., radio, and podcasts, and providing testimony to the House of Commons Finance Committee. She is a member of the research advisory board for the Northern Policy Institute and a member of the editorial Board for the Mowat Centre. Before becoming an academic, Lindsay held several non-partisan posts with the Government of Canada in Ottawa as well as in municipal government in the areas of public economics and policy implementation.
