Description

Luis Ricardo Fraga is the Director of the Institute for Latino Studies, Acting Chair of the Department of Political Science, Notre Dame Professor of Transformative Latino Leadership, Joseph and Elizabeth Robbie Professor of Political Science, and a Fellow at the Institute for Educational Initiatives. He has been on the faculty at the University of Washington, Stanford University, and the University of Oklahoma.

He received his A.B., cum laude, from Harvard University and his M.A. and Ph.D. from Rice University. His primary interests are in American politics where he specializes in the politics of race and ethnicity, Latino politics, immigration policy, education politics, voting rights policy, and urban politics. He has published extensively in scholarly journals and edited volumes including the American Political Science Review, the American Journal of Political Science, Perspectives on Politics, The Journal of Politics, Urban Affairs Quarterly, Western Political Quarterly, Dubois Review, Journal of Women, Politics & Policy, and the Harvard Journal of Hispanic Policy. He is also completing the co-authored manuscript Invisible No More: Latino Identities in American Politics as well as The Changing Urban Regime: Toward an Informed Public Interest, a history of the political incorporation of Tejanos in San Antonio city politics from 1836-2009.

In 2011 President Barak Obama appointed him to the President's Advisory Commission on Educational Excellence for Hispanics. He was co-chair of the Postsecondary Education Subcommittee. In 2011, Hispanic Business named him one of the top 100 Influentials in the U.S. In 2008 Governor Christine Gregoire appointed him to Washington's New Americans Policy Council. In 2013, Seattle Mayor Michael McGinn appointed him to the Immigrant Voting Rights Task Force where he served as co-chair. He is a past president of the Board of Directors of OneAmerica, an immigrant rights and advocacy organization based in Seattle, WA.

Fraga is also one of six principal investigators on the Latino National Survey (LNS), the first-ever state-stratified survey of Latinos in the U.S. The LNS asks questions regarding political attitudes, beliefs, behavior, and policy preferences. This project received $1.5M in support from major foundations and universities. Fraga has also received fifteen teaching, advising, mentoring, and service awards.
