

Lukasz Kurgan, Ph.D.

Qimonda Endowed Professor and Vice Chair of Computer Science at VCU College of Engineering

Engineering East Hall, Room E4254, Richmond, VA, US

Data scientist specializing in high-throughput structural bioinformatics of proteins & small RNAs.

Description

Lukasz Kurgan received his M.Sc. degree (with honors) in Automation and Robotics from AGH University of Science and Technology (Poland) in 1999 and a Ph.D. degree in Computer Science from University of Colorado at Boulder in 2003. He joined the University of Alberta in 2003 where he received tenure in 2007 and was promoted to the rank of Professor in 2013. He moved to the Virginia Commonwealth University in 2016 as the Qimonda Endowed Professor of Computer Science.

Industry Expertise

Education/Learning, Research, Computer Software, Biotechnology, Pharmaceuticals

Topics

Structural Bioinformatics, Proteins, Intrinsically Disordered Proteins, Small RNAs, Structural Genomics, Computer-aided molecular modeling , Protein-ligand(drug) interactions, Drug Repurposing, Big Data Analysis

Affiliations

Professor Department of Computer Science Virginia Commonwealth University, Adjunct Professor Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering University of Alberta

Education

University of Colorado at Boulder

Ph.D. Computer Science

University of Science and Technology (Poland)

M.Sc. Automation and Robotics

Accomplishments

Senior Member of ACM

Elevated to be a senior member of Association for Computing Machinery.

Gold Medal of Stanislaw Staszic

Recognition for outstanding academic achievements in the undergraduate and Master's studies.

Outstanding Graduate Student Award

Outstanding Graduate Student Award for the M.Sc. thesis.
