

Mark Cenicola

President and CEO at BannerView.com

Las Vegas, NV, US

Mark strips away the hype and gives his take on technology and its use in establishing a better business online.

Description

Before founding BannerView.com, Mark graduated Summa Cum Laude with an Associates of Applied Science degree in Computer Information Systems from Snow College. At Snow College he worked as a Network Administrator (Certified Novell Administrator) for the CIS department and helped develop the networking program previously in place at the college. After Graduation, Mark worked as a Network Engineer (Certified Novell Engineer) for the City of North Las Vegas responsible for helping with the design, layout and maintenance of a new multi-million dollar computer network. Mark was a shareware computer software author with titles written for both the Macintosh and PC which have been featured in magazines and CD-ROMs across the globe in places like Japan, France, and the US. Mark currently serves on the board of the Turnaround Management Association of Nevada. The Nevada Chapter is a member of the nationally chartered, Turnaround Management Association (TMA). TMA is the only international, non-profit association dedicated to corporate renewal and turnaround management. Mark also serves on the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce's Business Council. The Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce is the third largest chamber in the nation with over 6,000 members. The Business Council provides oversight for some of the Chamber's most established and most popular events. Mark is also author of The Banner Brand - Small Business Success Comes from a Banner Brand - Build it on a Budget. Mark is an expert in his field and now speaks both locally and nationally on various topics within the digital marketing and small business spectrum. Such topics include but are not limited to blogging and email marketing, brand identity, SEO and small businesses, social media, and positioning a website on a limited budget.

Testimonials

John F. D'Ariano

Having attended your session at the National Association of Professional Pet Sitters annual conference in Las Vegas we wanted to let you know how informative and valuable we found your presentation. We learned that it is not always necessary to spend the big bucks to get brand recognition and level the playing field. Thanks to the many ideas we picked up during your presentation we are looking forward to increasing our market share without necessarily having to increase our marketing and advertising budget. Thank you for putting together a comprehensive compact and informative program that enabled us to walk away with the knowledge we needed to take advantage of opportunities we failed to understand before attending your presentation.
