

Mark Wilson

Professor at Michigan State University

East Lansing, MI, US

Expert in urban planning, disruptive technologies (internet, autonomous vehicles) and mega events (Olympics, World Cup)

Biography

Mark Wilson is a professor of Urban & Regional Planning in the School of Planning, Design and Construction, with research and teaching interests focusing on three themes: 1) the impact of disruptive technologies on urban planning and life, including the affect of the internet on daily life and the implications of autonomous technologies for cities; 2) the planning and management elements of mega events such as the Olympics, World Cup and Expos on their host cities; and 3) the potential of industrial parks for urban economic development.

Industry Expertise

Public Policy, Education/Learning, Events Services, Research, Writing and Editing, Information Technology and Services

Areas of Expertise

Disruptive Technology, Industrial Parks, Internet and Cities, Autonomous Vehicles, Mega Events (Olympics, World Cup, Expos), Urban Economic Development

Education

University of Pennsylvania

Ph.D. Regional Science

University of Pennsylvania

M.A. Regional Science

University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

M.A. Economics

University of Melbourne

M.Commerce Regional/Urban Economics

University of Melbourne

B.Commerce Economics

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.