Attack Your Day! Before It Attacks You

Activities Rule, Not The Clock. To be a good time managers, you must be great at 5 activity management skills.

Choosing: Choosing the activities we do (or don't do) determines our daily productivity.

Arranging: Learn to think inside the time box to focus on the right activities and avoid procrastination.

Flexiute: You are a realist! You know that your day won't go exactly as planned, so you flexicute and prepare for the expected unexpected.

Tracking: At the completion of this workshop you'll have a system to track all activity to ensure that nothing falls through the cracks.

Focusing: Focusing is the ability to say NO to interruptions and distractions.

Attack Your Day! Before It Attacks You

Today, we have more events and activities to manage than every before because of technology, the Internet and expectations of doing more with less. What we need are fast, flexible and easy solutions to navigate time for greater productivity. In this workshop you'll learn a simple formula to make effective choices, deal with Interruptions, and conflicting priorities.

Testimonials

Elizabeth Chappel, PMP

“Attack Your Day! offers a fresh perspective. As President of a volunteer organization, I’ve found time can be better managed by focusing on the practices identified in this book. These same practices are essential for success as a project manager.”

Gena Wikstrom

“Attack Your Day! is an easy process that reaps huge benefits. Every student, every faculty member, and every administrator would see their productivity escalate and stress reduced just by practicing what’s outlined in this book. I did. It works.”
