

Martha Lanier

President at IGNITE Your Potential Inc

Cumming, GA, US

Empowering Women for Courage & Confidence | Breast Cancer and Heart Attack Survivor, Iron Girl Triathlete, Skydiver, Author.

Description

Martha Lanier is a nationally recognized speaker who is known for her distinctive presentation style that is both informative and entertaining. When women are having fun, they retain more information longer. Key learning points are made memorable through the use of her wit and unique storytelling skills.

As president of IGNITE Your Potential, Inc, she believes we are each capable of achieving far more than we think is possible. She is no stranger when it comes to facing your fears and overcoming self-limiting barriers.

Woman's Day magazine featured her daring skydiving adventure in an article about women over 50 who have taken risks. She was influenced by her daughter who had served two tours of duty in the Middle East as a C-2 pilot in the Navy on board the aircraft carrier, the Constellation.

In April, 2008, Martha discovered a lump in her right breast just one week after her yearly physical exam. A biopsy revealed she had breast cancer identified as Stage I infiltrating ductal carcinoma. She chose to take aggressive action and on June 3 had a bilateral mastectomy with reconstructive surgery using an abdominal TRAM.

Just 6 weeks post-op she registered as a walker and began training for the Atlanta 2-Day Walk for Breast Cancer. Not only did she complete the 30 mile walk with her 2 daughters, but was also a guest speaker during the closing ceremonies.

In June, 2009, she accepted a challenge from her daughters and celebrated her first year anniversary as a breast cancer survivor by competing (as a previous non-athlete) in the Aflac Iron Girl Sprint Triathlon at age 62.

One month later and in the best physical condition of her life, she was diagnosed with having an unlikely and unexpected heart attack. With a diagnosis of Stress Cardiomyopathy, she experienced first-hand what can happen when we let everyday stress control our lives.

During her career she climbed the corporate ladder from administrative assistant, to office manager, to VP of relocation services and now business owner.

In 2006/2007, Martha Lanier served as president of National Speakers Association - Georgia Chapter. Her election as president by her peers underscores her success as a leader, mentor and decision maker.

Sample Talks

THE POWER OF UNDERSTANDING: Improving Relationships at Work and at Home

Recognizing the different methods people use to think, process and respond to situations increases the opportunity to improve relationships with co-workers, customers, family and friends. This visual and interactive program provides solutions on how to identify different behavioral styles and how to best communicate with them. Concepts are based on identifying how we each respond to solving problems, influencing others, reacting to situations and following procedures. By understanding generational differences, attendees also learn to eliminate potential conflict with all ages of co-workers and customers.

THE POWER OF RESILIENCE: Managing Life's Stresses

Today women are overloaded with multiple forms of stress, whether it is from balancing responsibilities at home and at work or facing life's unexpected challenges. To add even more stress, many are concerned over the economy, finances, their health and their happiness. Martha provides an entertaining and action-packed program that demonstrates how to regain control and live a healthy lifestyle. Audiences leave knowing how to make powerful choices that result in being recharged, refocused and ready to enjoy a life of resilience.

THE POWER OF INFLUENCE: Implementing Practical Leadership Skills

Each and every day there are numerous opportunities to influence the lives of co-workers, customers, family and friends. Although the influence may not be obvious, it is always there. This program offers specific leadership techniques that encourage and reinforce the skills of others and show them how to develop their greatness. Attendees will understand the influence they have and discover how easily they can make a difference in some else's life.

THE POWER OF CHOICE: Overcoming Self-Limiting Barriers

Martha Lanier is no stranger when it comes to perseverance in the face of difficulty. Her experiences, from surviving breast cancer and an unlikely heart attack to competing in the Iron Girl Triathlon at age 62, illustrates her expertise in turning obstacles into opportunities. With her unique storytelling style, Martha shares how to solve challenges from a different perspective and build strategies that turn negative circumstances into positive results.
