

Michael Brown

Talk Show Host, Author, Speaker at Clear Channel Communications

Denver, CO, US

An insider's view of homeland security, politics, and personal redemption that can be used in everyone's life at any time.

Biography

Michael Brown was the first Under Secretary of Homeland Security for President George W. Bush from 2003-2005, Director, Deputy Director & General Counsel, FEMA, 2001-2005. At the White House he served on the Consequence Management Committee, comprised of cabinet deputies, following the attacks of 9/11, and headed the White House transition team for Emergency Preparedness & Response, Department of Homeland Security. He also served on the National Security Council's Deputies Committee.

Michael's unique perspective on homeland security issues comes from being the only Presidential appointee to have served in a legacy agency (FEMA), the transition team to create DHS, and as an Under Secretary in the newly created cabinet department. National Security Advisor Condoleezza Rice and Deputy National Security Advisor Steve Hadley described Michael's participation as "particularly critical."

During his tenure in the Bush Administration Michael served as a representative to NATO's Civil Emergency Planning Committee, working on various matters in Russia, the European Union, and Southeast Asia.

He is a frequent guest on national television news programs, providing insightful and unique perspectives on issues of national security, crisis management, and politics. He is a blogger on national security issues for The National Journal, writes on politics for The Daily Caller & The Huffington Post. He has written and served as an expert for publications such as the Homeland Defense Journal, Crisis Response Journal and others.

He is the author of "Deadly Indifference: The Perfect (Political) Storm" which poignantly describes the role of politics in a risk-aversion society facing natural or manmade disasters. He has spoken around the world on issues of homeland security, crisis management and disaster response.

Michael earned a Juris Doctorate and has taught law school at the Oklahoma City University and University of Denver on legislation, state & local government, and national security.

Michael recently founded a high tech company with several other partners, and now serves as its board chairman. In addition to other public company boards, he serves on the editorial board of Homeland Security Television.

Michael hosts The Michael Brown Show on Clear Channel Communication's KOA Radio from Denver, where he is heard in 38 states, Canada, and Mexico.

Availability

Keynote, Moderator, Panelist, Workshop, Host/MC, Author Appearance, Corporate Training

Industry Expertise

Corporate Leadership, Security, Public Policy, Sanitation and Waste Management, Media - Broadcast, Social Media, International Affairs, Corporate Training, Government Relations, Professional Training and Coaching

Areas of Expertise

Social Media Media, Government, Motivational, Crisis Management, Leadership, Media, Public Policy, Politics, Faith

Sample Talks

The View From Under The Bus

The crisis has hit, you and your company are under attack. How do you respond? How do you survive? Listen to the gripping tales of being thrown under the bus by the leader of the free world in a highly public, media-driven society, and recognize the methods and traits that will keep you and your company from staying under the bus.

Homeland Insecurity

Think your company or organization can survive a disaster? Convinced that your employees are loyal, prepared and dedicated? What really happens when the proverbial you-know-what hits the fan? Well, think again. In every disaster, every crisis, things happen you'd never expect. Learn how to expect them, deal with them and survive.

Deadly Indifference: How It Can Destroy You and Your Organization

Deadly Indifference can infect any organization, leading to a culture of arrogance that can spell doom for you and your employees. Learn how to inoculate yourself from this deadly disease.

I Survived The Bush Presidency

Politics is high profile, public and unforgiving. The same is true in every business, in every life. Learning how to deal with those crisis situations and surviving them is key - but will work only if you know how to do it before the crisis arises.

God, Faith & Family

What else matters? Hear the heartfelt stories of people in disaster, including yours truly, and how those three things - God, Faith and Family - can keep you, your organization and family together.

Event Appearances

Business Continuity, Disaster Response & Crisis Management on an International Scale
Global Cooperation for Disaster Management: Toward a More Secure World

Can You Handle the Media?

Media Fairness & The 2012 Presidential Campaign

Saving Your Business When the Crisis Hits
Northeast Disaster Recovery Information Exchange Conference

Deadly Indifference
Book Review

Education

Oklahoma City University School of Law
Juris Doctorate Law

University of Central Oklahoma
Bachelor of Arts Political Science/Public Administration

Accomplishments

Under Secretary of Homeland Security

First Under Secretary of Homeland Security under President George W. Bush. Twice confirmed by the United States Senate, first as Director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and as Under Secretary, DHS.

Commissioner, IAHA

The first Commissioner of the IAHA, charged with imposing a culture of ethics, higher education and professional responsibility on a worldwide equine membership organization, resulting in the prosecution of corruption and unethical behavior, imposition of licensing standards and education standards.

General Counsel

Appointed by George W. Bush as General Counsel to the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Testimonials

Paul Hayden

Michael Brown immediately engaged with the delegates on the issues that he faced during the "Hurricane Katrina" period. Mr. Brown gave a hugely honest direct presentation that delved into the facts surrounding the Hurricane Katrina disaster, which facilitated greater understanding of the events during which the audience warmed and responded to Michael's clear presentation and style. He didn't move away from either difficult topics or challenging questions and handled all the issues with grace, reasoned answers and great warmth and charm. Many afterwards commented on their new found respect for Mr. Brown. Our audience made it very clearly known that his presentation and presence had truly enriched the whole experience.

Craig Nemitz

Michael Brown's presentation transcended the multiple countries, languages and delegates at this venue. He spoke from the heart and everyone was enthralled with his dedication to help people in need. His personality and delivery made for an exciting and robust exchange of ideas. Michael's presence encouraged the delegates to think beyond their finger tip, stretch for new ideas and be willing to learn from past mistakes. His participation in IDER 2006 is still considered THE highlight of all IDER programs. Yes, Michael Brown is a tried and true professional in his field. Michael is gifted, talented and has a fantastic message everyone in the Emergency Management field MUST hear!

CHRISTINE GLEBUS, CBCP

Michael Brown was a keynote speaker at one of our annual 2 day conferences held in Newport, RI. He was one of the best received speakers we have ever had. He knew his audience and connected with them immediately. Michael was direct and to the point and was very candid about lessons learned, the value of communications and the importance of preparedness. I would highly recommend Michael Brown to speak to any corporation or organization. Christine Glebus President of the Northeast Disaster Recovery Information X-Change (NEDRIX)

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.