

Michelle Stack

Associate Professor, Department of Educational Studies, Faculty of Education at University of British Columbia

Vancouver, BC, CA

Professor Stack's teaching and research are in the areas of university rankings, media education and educational policy.

Description

Michelle Stack, PhD, is an associate professor, former senior policy advisor and public commentator on education. Her research interests include university rankings, the role of media in the policymaking process, using multimedia technology as part of research, community and youth engagement, social justice and equity in education. She also consults with school districts, government agencies and non-profits on equity issues.

Her primary goal is to challenge what is often seen as common sense and to integrate other ways of thinking and knowing about problems and possible solutions. To do this work, Michelle focuses on collaboration and bridging the knowledge of diverse communities including children and youth, activists, practitioners, journalists, academics and policymakers to the research process.

She has dipped her toe in standup comedy, and she is currently a student in a creative writing program.

Industry Expertise

Education/Learning, Research, Public Policy

Topics

University Rankings, Educational Policy, Educational Leadership, Education and Equity, Media and Democracy, Mental Health And Media Coverage, Knowledge Mobilization

Affiliations

Canadian Society for Studies in Education : Member, Center for Leadership and Diversity : Affiliated Member

Past Talks

University Rankings and Mediatization,
Canadian Research in International Education

University Rankings, Mediatization and Celebrification
Mediatization Research: Culture, Conflict and Organizations Seminar

Social Justice and learning from each other
Right to Education Conference for School Management Representatives

Education

University of Toronto, Ontario Institute of Studies in Education (OISE)
Ph.D.

Carleton University
M.A. Applied Language Studies

Carleton University
M.A. Canadian Studies

University of Alberta
B.A. Anthropology

Accomplishments

Killam Teaching Award

Awarded for formal and informal teaching. I have had opportunities to teach and learn with high school students, new immigrants and refugees to Canada, undergraduate and graduate students.

Visiting Scholar Emory Law School

While at Emory, I worked with Professor Martha Albertson Fineman on issues of equity, and developing strategies for the implementation of a vulnerability approach across government ministries, boards, agencies and commissions.

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.