

Patricia Bradley, PhD

Associate Professor | M. Louise Fitzpatrick College of Nursing at Villanova University

Villanova, PA, US

Patricia K. Bradley, PhD, RN, FAAN is a leading expert in psychiatric mental health nursing and disparities in cancer outcomes.

Description

Dr. Bradley has a career-long commitment to research related to breast cancer and African American women. She is a leading expert in psychiatric mental health nursing, psychosocial oncology, and cultural competence in health and illness. Dr. Bradley's nursing career has been dedicated to reducing health disparities and inequities in underserved populations by blending the outcomes from her practice, scholarship, and educational work at community, state, and national levels. She has been able to assist several organizations in developing culturally relevant educational programs for breast cancer survivors, program evaluation methods, and training manuals. Her scholarly and advocacy contributions have resulted in a paradigm shift of working within a positive coping model with African American women.

Industry Expertise

Mental Health Care, Education/Learning, Health Care - Providers

Topics

Psychosocial Aspects of Illness, Breast Cancer Screening, Diagnosis and Survivorship Among African American Women, Health Disparity, Psychiatric Mental Health Nursing, Breast Cancer Screening, Cancer Survivorship, Diversity/Cultural Competence

Affiliations

Psychiatric Consultation Liaison Nurse, The Graduate Hospital, Philadelphia, PA, Volunteer, American Cancer Society, Member, Oncology Nursing Society, Consultant, Living Beyond Breast Cancer

Education

University of Pennsylvania

PhD

University of Pennsylvania

MSN

Temple University

BSN

Accomplishments

Health Advocacy Award Philadelphia Tuskegee Alumni Award
2017

Honorary Member Chi Eta Phi Sorority Incorporated
2015

American Academy of Nursing Fellow 2011

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.