

Patrick Conway, Ph.D.

Professor and Chair, Department of Economics, College of Arts and Sciences at UNC-Chapel Hill

Chapel Hill, NC, US

Patrick J. Conway is Professor and Chair of the Department of Economics at UNC Chapel Hill

Patrick J. Conway is professor and chair of the Department of Economics at UNC Chapel Hill. His research focuses on international economics and international economic development, including international aspects of transition, impact of IMF adjustment programs on developing countries, theoretical explanations and empirical implications of international trade between developed and developing countries, the effect of globalization on textiles industry in the United States, and poverty and unemployment in North Carolina.

Conway is the author or co-author of numerous books. In addition, he has published over 150 scholarly articles, essays, and book reviews. Conway has received various grants and fellowships over the years, as well as teaching awards, including the International Affairs Fellowship of the Council of Foreign Relations in 1989 and the Bowman and Gordon Gray Distinguished Term Professorship in 2007 by UNC in recognition of his teaching and research success.

Previously, Conway served as founding director of the Center for Faculty Excellence at UNC-Chapel Hill from 2008-2009. The Center for Faculty Excellence at UNC-Chapel Hill enables faculty members in all disciplines to reach their goals in teaching, research, and leadership throughout their careers.

Conway received his PhD in Economics and MPA in International Development from Princeton University.

Education/Learning, Research

International Economics, Economic Development, IMF Adjustment Programs, International Trade, Globalization

World Bank : Research Associate, International Monetary Fund : Visiting Scholar Research Department

Princeton University

Ph.D. Economics

Woodrow Wilson School, Princeton University

M.P.A. Public and International Affairs

Georgetown University, School of Foreign Service

B.S.F.S. International Economic Policy

The Bowman and Gordon Gray Professorship in Economics (2007)

Awarded by UNC Chapel Hill

The William Friday/Class of 1986 Award (2001)

Awarded for Excellence in Teaching

The Pew Faculty Fellowship in International Affairs (1991)

Awarded by Harvard University

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.