

Robert Saunders

Professor, History, Politics, and Geography at Farmingdale State College

Farmingdale, NY, US

Dr. Saunders teaches from a global point of view; he is an expert on British comedian Sacha Baron Cohen.

Biography

Robert A. Saunders is a professor in the Department of History, Politics & Geography at Farmingdale State College, where he teaches courses on comparative religions, global politics, and world history. In addition to his role as an instructor, Dr. Saunders is also Chair of the Science, Technology and Society (STS) program, the largest baccalaureate program in the School of Arts and Sciences at Farmingdale. He holds a PhD in Global Affairs from Rutgers University and degrees in History from Stony Brook University (MA) and the University of Florida (BA). His geographic areas of focus include Russia and Central Asia, Europe, and the Muslim world. His research explores the impact of popular culture and mass media on geopolitics, nationalism, and religious identity.

Dr. Saunders' scholarship has appeared in Progress in Human Geography, Nations and Nationalism, Slavic Review, Nationalism and Ethnic Politics, and Geopolitics, as well as other journals. He is the curator of the "Popular Culture and IR" blog channel at E-International Relations.

Based on his extensive work on Kazakhstan's feud with the British comedian Sacha Baron Cohen, Harper's labeled him the "world's leading Boratologist." His 2008 book on the subject is entitled "The Many Faces of Sacha Baron Cohen: Politics, Parody, and the Battle over Borat." He is also the author of "Ethnopolitics in Cyberspace: The Internet, Minority Nationalism, and the Web of Identity" (2010), and the co-author, with Vlad Strukov, of the "Historical Dictionary of the Russian Federation" (2010).

During the fall of 2014, Dr. Saunders held a Visiting Senior Research Fellowship at the University of Leeds, hosted by the School of Modern Languages and Cultures' Leeds Russian Centre.
