

Ruomeng Cui

Assistant Professor of Information Systems & Operations Management at Emory University, Goizueta Business School

Atlanta, GA, US

Biography

Ruomeng Cui completed her PhD in operations management at Northwestern University Kellogg School of Management in 2014. Prior to coming to Emory, Cui was an assistant professor at Indiana University's Kelly School of Business. Cui's research investigates the value created through information sharing in contexts including retail, online marketplaces, service operations and supply chains. Also, she's examined how operational strategies affect consumer behaviors, firm performance and government procurement. She has published articles in a number of leading journals, including Management Science, Production and Operations Management, and Harvard Business Review. Media reports on her research, including US National Public Radio and Globe and Mail.

Areas of Expertise

Online Marketplaces, Consumer Behavior, Inventory Management, Supply Chain

Education

Northwestern University, Kellogg School of Management
Ph.D. Operations Management

Northwestern University, Kellogg School of Management
M.Sc Operations Management

Tsinghua University
B.Sc Industrial Engineering

Please click here to view the full profile.

This profile was created by Expertfile.