

Shaun Whatling

CEO at Redmandarin

London, London, GB

Shaun is an intelligent, stimulating, and frequently challenging speaker on the subject of how businesses engage with customers.'

Description

Shaun's approach to the organisation-consumer relationship draws on: seven years' experience, as the Marketing Director of a small NGO, which doubled trading turnover and membership and secured a Â£1m investment from Sega in an early example of educational sponsorship; one year as Head of UK Comms at The Body Shop Int'l, watching Anita wrestling with the agony of 'operationalising' the business; a further seven years co-founding and building what became the world's largest action sports agency - helping brands navigate the often turbulent sub-cultures of snowboarding and surfing; and latterly as CEO of Redmandarin, advising major corporations on the real world relationships generated by sponsorship; and three years as a student of psychotherapy, with its rich understanding of applied relationships
