Description

Dr. Tory Cox, EdD, LCSW, PPSC, Clinical Associate Professor, is the Assistant Dean of Field Education and Director of the Virtual Academic Center's Field Education program for USC's Suzanne Dworak-Peck School of Social Work. He recently earned his doctorate in education from the USC Rossier School of Education in Organizational Change and Leadership. He was also the former Lead of the COBI Fellowship in Social Innovation, which won the CSWE/SAGE 2016 Award for Innovative Teaching in Social Work Education. Since 2010, he has been an Academic Advisor and Field Liaison for MSW students, served as Field Coordinator for the Community, Organization, Planning and Administration and Social Work and Business in a Global Society concentrations, and taught Integrative Seminar and Leadership courses.

He recently co-edited the Oxford University Press text titled "School Social Work: National Perspectives on Practice in Schools," which won the National Book of the Year Award from the School Social Work Association of America, and is a contributing author to journals specializing in school-based social work. He is an Editorial Board member for NASW's Children & Schools journal, the Past President of the California Association of School Social Workers, and the Treasurer for End Abuse, Long Beach (EALB), a child abuse and domestic violence prevention council in Long Beach, CA. In 2013, Prof. Cox received the Abuse Prevention Award from EALB and commendations from local, state, and federal legislators for his work in training future social workers. In 2010, Prof. Cox received the "Social Worker of the Year" award from NASW-CA's Region I, Long Beach Unit and "Most Inspirational Professor" for his work at the School of Social Work at California State University, Long Beach.

Previously, he was a school social worker for 13 years with the Long Beach Unified School District (LBUSD), serving as a Field Instructor for MSW student interns, among other duties, from Cal State Long Beach, UCLA, and Cal State Dominguez Hills social work programs. As the Lead School Social Worker for LBUSD from 2006-2010, he helped lead a team dedicated to prevention and intervention across the district through federally funded grant programs, community collaborations, attendance initiatives, and site-based direct practice.
