

Tyler Langdon

Counsel, Global Legal Operations at McCain Foods Limited

Toronto, ON, CA

An advocate for optimization and efficiency, this expert in global legal operations is sure to impress the most discerning audience.

As Counsel, Global Legal Operations Tyler has responsibility for providing legal support to McCain Foods Limited and numerous subsidiary companies around the world. Tyler has provided advice with respect to business in more than 45 countries. He has primary responsibility for providing counsel relating to McCain's Canadian, Central and South American operations, McCain International Inc., McCain's Global Technology Centre and the One McCain Project – one of the largest projects in McCain's history involving standardizing the way McCain does business around the globe. Tyler also supports, along with other members of our legal team, business operations in Australia and New Zealand.

Tyler is a strong advocate for optimization and efficiency, and is responsible for assisting McCain's Chief Legal Officer with the operations side of the global legal department, including developing a knowledge management system for the global legal team and streamlining McCain's network of over 145 external law firms around the world. Tyler leads McCain's efforts in conceptualizing and implementing innovative alternative billing arrangements, negotiating rates, discount levels and Master Retainer Agreements with each of its external service providers. Tyler plays a leadership role in several global initiatives within McCain, including its global privacy law compliance program and records retention initiative.
