

Victor Littles, EdD

Adjunct Faculty - School of Leadership Studies at Fielding Graduate University

Oakland, CA, US

Diversity, inclusion, community

Description

Victor Littles has a B.A. from San Francisco State University in International Relations and a Masters from Holy Names University, Oakland, California. He completed his Doctorate of Education at Fielding Graduate University in Leadership for Change.

As an adjunct professor at Holy Names University, he taught "Issues in Urban Education and Multi-Cultural Education." Prior to this, Littles taught for Oakland Unified School District, starting as a classroom teacher of History in 2001.

Dr. Littles is attuned to issues of diversity and inclusion, and is sensitive to all members of the community.

His background includes working for two mayors of Oakland, California: Jerry Brown and Elihu Harris. He also served as their Community Advocate and Education Advisor.

Dr. Littles also served as a board commissioner for the Alameda County Human Rights Commission, advocating against repression, violence, racism, and sexism. For ten years, he worked for the Martin Luther King Freedom Center, engaging students in a series of diversity workshops. Based upon the teachings of Martin Luther King Jr., these workshops foster learning about Dr. King's life and principles.

In 2016, Dr. Littles served on the Advance Team for the Hilary Clinton campaign. He previously served on the Advance Team for President Bill Clinton and Secretary of State John Kerry.

Raised in Las Vegas, Nevada in a family of classically trained ballet dancers, Littles danced in Jubilee at Bally's Las Vegas, as well as in music videos and commercials.
