Author, Editor, and Blogger at

Atlanta, GA, US

Veteran IT Professional and Author of the book "Confessions of a Virtual Employee"

Biography

My name is William Higgins and I am veteran IT professional, software developer and certified Enterprise Content Management (ECM) Practitioner. I have 17+ years of experience developing enterprise Capture, Imaging, and BPM solutions. I started my life in technology as a web developer back in 1995 and continue to be involved with the web, cloud and blogging to this day. As a writer and author, I wrote a case study that was published and featured in the second edition of The 4-Hour Workweek by Timothy Ferriss. That experience helped motivate me to expand upon that case study and to author my first book. The book is titled, Confessions of a Virtual Employee: How I Quit Working As Hard and Learned to Love The Job and is now available on Amazon.
